

Calling All Science Educators!

This is an excellent opportunity for California educators to gain a deeper understanding of the California Next Generation Science Standards by participating in the development of the California Science Test (CAST). Join us for virtual educator meetings to provide vital input. Stipends are available for participation during noncontract hours.

All California educators are encouraged to apply.

Available Opportunities

- Item Review Meetings: Participants will review potential test questions for issues related to content, bias, and sensitivity that may affect student performance.
- Data Review Meetings: Participants will review statistics from student scores on field test questions.
- Range Finding: Participants will score student written responses using rubrics.
